

An event for World Environment Day

Thursday 5th June 2014

Values, Conscience and Climate Change

An international speaker, broadcaster and author, Sister Jayanti sees the erosion of human values as the root cause of the crises the world faces today. She is the Brahma Kumaris' NGO Representative to the United Nations, Geneva and since 2009 has headed the BK delegation to UN Climate Change Conferences around the world and to Rio+20, the UN's Sustainable Development Conference in Brazil in 2012. Sister Jayanti is the European Director of the Brahma Kumaris.

The Revd Dr Alan Race is Rector of the Anglican Church of St. Margaret, Lee, in South London and Chair of the World Congress of Faiths, as well as being the journal editor for Interreligious Insight. He is interested in progressive thought in Christian faith and the application of new ways of thinking to society as a whole. He believes that Climate Change is probably not so much one concern among others but the basic issue for the sustainability of the future for the planet as a whole.

Values, Conscience and Climate Change

Learning to live in harmony with our natural world is the most pressing need of our time. Solutions based on education, legislation and advances in technology, although important, are not enough to turn the tide. There needs to be a radical shift in our hearts and minds - a change of consciousness in the way we relate to ourselves, others and nature.

So, where do we start? In an age where values such as harmony and simplicity have got trampled on in the rush for the latest i-pad or holiday destination, can we find the time - or even the will - to listen to that barely audible voice of the human conscience?

Join Sister Jayanti and Rev Canon Dr Alan Race to explore these topical issues.
